

Medical Care After Sexual Assault

A Guide to Alberta Services

Current as of Aug 2026

The following handout contains information regarding medical services for people in Alberta who have experienced sexual assault, including: Sexual Assault Response Teams (SARTs), medical sexual assault exams, and general medical care and emotional support. If you do not see the name of where you live on this list go to the location closest to you, or contact 811 to learn about options closer to home.

Accessing medical care and treatment is available even if there is no apparent injury. Most sexual assaults do not result in visible injuries. Accessing medical care can connect people who have been sexually assaulted to appropriate testing and referrals, such as to sexual assault centres, but it is a personal choice to decide to access medical services.

Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) Locations

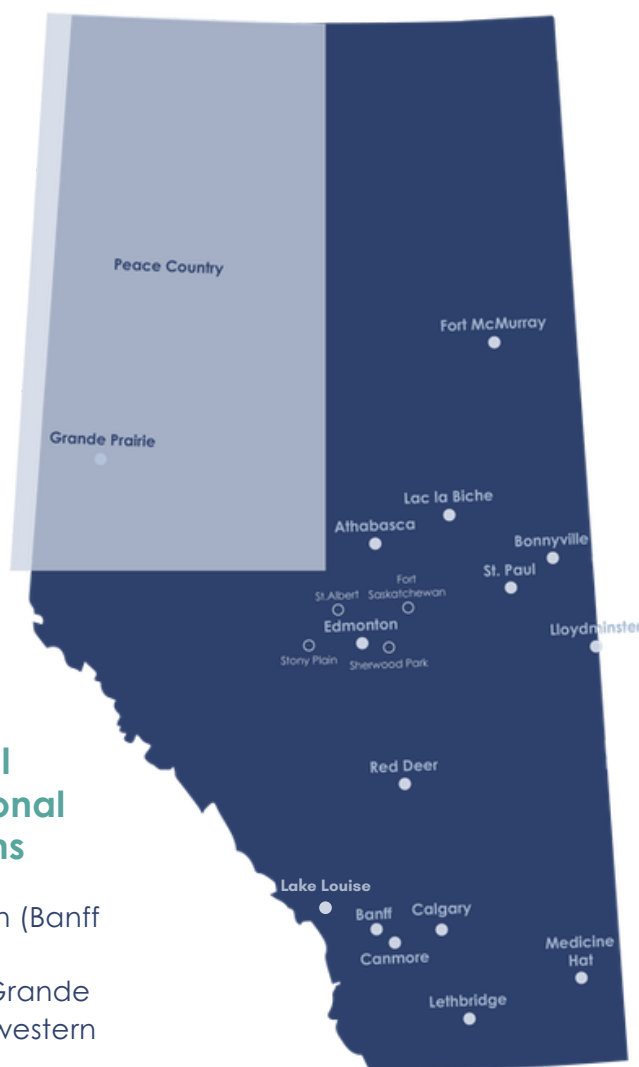

- Calgary
- Edmonton, including:
 - Fort Saskatchewan
 - Leduc
 - Sherwood Park
 - St. Albert
 - Stony Plain
- Lethbridge
- Lloydminster
- Medicine Hat
- Red Deer
- Lake Louise

Medical Sexual Assault Exam Locations

- Athabasca
- Bonnyville
- Fort McMurray
- Lac la Biche
- St. Paul

General Medical Care and Emotional Support Locations

- Peace Country (Grande Prairie and Northwestern Alberta)

Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) Services

The following locations offer a program called Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) which is a team of people who work together to support people who have recently experienced sexual assault. The team in each area may include nurses, physicians, police or RCMP officers, and support workers who provide information and emotional support.

SART offers different options for treatment to patients accessing the service

Option 1 – Medical care only, provided by nurses or doctors.

This option usually involves assessment for and treatment of physical injuries, pregnancy and STI testing, and referrals for counselling or other healthcare services. Injuries after a sexual assault might not always be obvious, people who have been sexually assaulted can still access SART medical care, even when injuries might not be visible.

Option 2 – Medical care and forensic evidence collection and reporting to the police.

This option involves collecting DNA evidence. If someone who was sexually assaulted wants this option, it is best to access SART as soon as possible after the assault, and to avoid showering or bathing beforehand. In most instances, police will come to the hospital to take the report.

Option 3 – Medical care and forensic evidence collection with no immediate reporting to the police.

This option is available if someone isn't sure if they want to report the sexual assault to police. Forensic evidence will be stored anonymously for up to one year. This gives a person time to decide if you want to report to police or not. After 1 year, if they do not want to report to police, the evidence will be destroyed. Please note, this option is only available at some locations (see list below).

Edmonton and Surrounding Area SART

Who can access

People of all genders who have recently been sexually assaulted

When to access

Within one week (7 days) of the sexual assault for anyone 14 years or older

Within 3 days (72 hours) for anyone 13 years old or younger (at the Stollery Children's Hospital)

Edmonton Zone SART's business hours are 7:30am to 11:00pm, seven days per week. SART nurses are not available between 11:00pm and 7:30am daily. Patients who arrive at an Emergency Room between 11:00pm and 7:30am will receive emergency medical and supportive care from the Emergency Room team until the SART nurse arrives.

How to access Edmonton SART

Call 1.833.358.0888 to speak with a SART nurse to determine your best option for care. Services are available at the SART Clinic (by appointment only) or at the emergency departments below. If you go to an emergency department, tell the triage nurse you would like to see the Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) or that you've been sexually assaulted.

Lake Louise SART

The Lake Louise Medical Centre recently completed Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) training & can now conduct both medical treatment and forensic examinations (sexual assault exam kit) for the Lake Louise community. This is an important step in increasing access to specialized sexual assault services - previously individuals had to travel to Calgary for the exam.

Who can access

People of all genders who are 16 years or older, who has been recently sexually assaulted.

For anyone under 16 years old, the clinic will arrange transportation to CSART in Calgary.

When to access

The Sexual Assault Evidence kit can be completed within 4 days (96 hours) of the sexual assault.

Medical and mental health care will be provided to survivors regardless of timeline since assault.

How to access Lake Louise SART

Call the clinic at 403.522.2184 and follow prompts.

The clinic can be called any time of day and has trained physicians available 24/7.

Please note that walk-in services are not currently available so a call must be placed to access services

Additional information

3rd option evidence storage is available through self-referral at the Lake Louise Medical Clinic, or with an RCMP member if the survivor has chosen to report. The kits will be kept anonymously at the local police detachment, with a file number associated with their patient's chart at the clinic.

Survivors will be able to continue their care at the clinic for medical follow-ups regarding testing (self-swabs/blood work), along with STI treatments, pregnancy prevention or termination.

General Medical Care and Emotional Support Services

The following locations offer medical care for people who have recently been sexually assaulted, and have services that can provide emotional support nearby. Anyone can access medical care following a sexual assault from an emergency physician, urgent care physician, or family physician across the province. Emergency physicians are also able to conduct the forensic evidence kit collection.

- Please note that forensic evidence collection is not an Alberta Health Services insured service, therefore emergency physicians are not obligated to perform this examination and/or may not feel comfortable doing so.
